INTRODUCTION

This data dictionary provides information about the definitions of all the data elements in each file type.

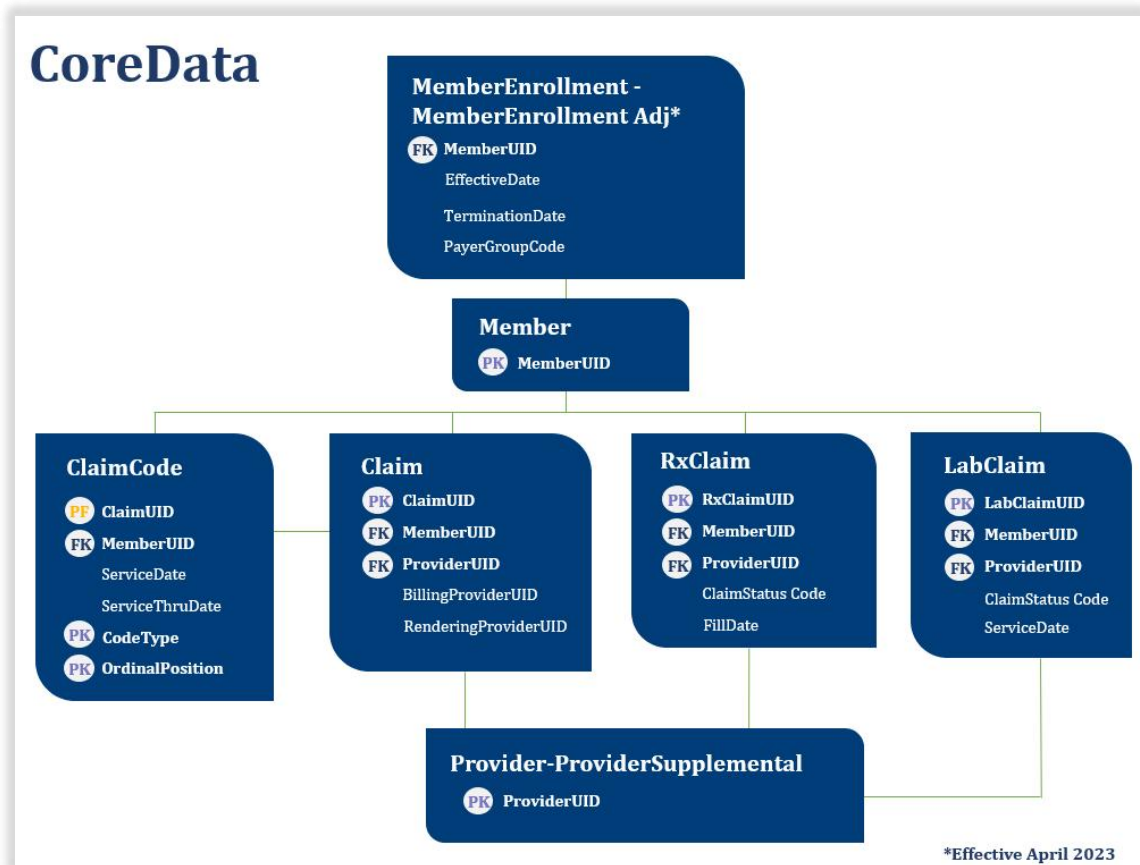

Inovalon Vault Closed Claims datasets consists of:

- Core dataset of files that are included with each delivery type (per contractual terms)
- Supplemental files that may accompany the core dataset

Each file contains data that can be used to create a database structure with a system of choice. A list of columns is included, describing the column name used in the file, its data type, a description of the column content, expected values for each column, key notation, and required field indicators.

OVERVIEW OF FILES

Each file type describes the attributes included with each file in addition to their description, comments about expected values, and data details.
